My Next Chapter For Creatives is a space to think and plan for what's next
This one-day programme is a creative collaboration between Coach and Facilitator, Bev Morton and Artist Jean McEwan.

Using creative materials and methods throughout, My Next Chapter for Creatives is an immersive and focussed day working alongside creative professionals and peers, each different, in a supportive environment.

Throughout the session we'll be exploring:

- Your relationship to your creativity
- Being an artist as you and asking what is the 'space that only you can fill'?
- Drawing on what inspires you
- Growing in yourself and your artistic practice

Jean McEwan

"I am now about to embark on a life changing path which I would have put off for another couple of years, had I not found the clarity through the My Next Chapter programme. I am building a future around my identified needs, which will in turn allow me to grow and thrive as a creative person."

"The big change for me came around challenging what I thought was an immovable structure to my life – which actually was just me not questioning what I was doing and for what reason. I would describe My Next Chapter for Creatives as a clearing of space in your head and life which allows you to build something that is rooted in your authentic self."
